Octopuses are extremely intelligent. They can learn new things just like humans. They've even learned a few tricks to get them out of sticky situations. If an octopus is threatened by a predator, such as a shark or bird, it can use some pretty incredible skills to get away. Octopuses don't have teeth or sharp claws to defend themselves. Instead, they use more clever ways to fool their attackers. Octopuses like to hide themselves in the sand on the bottom of the ocean floor. How you ask? Well, the octopus is like a chameleon because it can change the color of its skin to match the sand. And this color change, or camouflage, happens in less than a minute.

The only problem is that this vehicle is open on each side, so you breathe in the traffic fumes!

In Manila, in the Philippines, where I live, we get to school by big vehicle. It has two benches in the back, so a lot of kids can travel at once. Animal specialist Dr. Noor Al Amudin told Gulf News: 'Animal homes are lost as people use the land to build houses. They drive over land with four-wheel drives and catch animals to sell for money. All these things have endangered some animals in the UAE.'

The UAE is home to many beautiful animals, such as camels and cormorants. Animals, such as the Hawksbill turtle, Arabian leopard and the Arabian tahr are all examples of endangered animals. The Arabian tahr is endangered because the places it lives have been used for building homes. For a long time, people have caught and killed Arabian Leopards for money. This has left leopard numbers very low. It can be difficult to find an answer, but the country is working to look after and help endangered species. There are rules to stop people building houses on the places where these animals live. With protection, the Arabian leopard may live in peace and have more babies, to let the number of leopards grow again. Putting rubbish in the sea is killing sea animals, such as the Hawksbill turtle, because their home is no longer safe. If you are at the beach, take your rubbish home and help your local wildlife.'
